Celebration set at AES

Readers, readers, readers everywhere at Appomattox Elementary School. To help celebrate December as "Reading Month," students at AES are competing in a reading contest by room.

For each room there will be awards of a blue, red or yellow ribbon for students reading the most books. As soon as a student finishes reading a book, he or she can trace his or her own footprint on construction paper.

On the print will be written the book's title and author, students' name, grade and room number. The student may then add his or her print to the line of prints that began at the principal's office.

The idea is to have the prints meander throughout the school and return to Mr. Bowman's office by December 21. Come in and look for these "prints of reading."

Middle FFA holds meeting

BY CHERYL SIMPSON

The Appomattox Middle School FFA Executive Committee met after school Thursday, Dec. 8.

Each officer received his or her copy of the "Program of Work," and we discussed the objectives and projects we've completed this far and those we have left to finish.

Officers and members have been working hard lately collecting toys, money and clothes for needy families in Appomattox. Many hours have been spent cleaning and repairing the toys. If you have anything you would like to donate drop it by the Middle School Ag Department any day from 8:30 - 3:30.

T. W. Layne, chairman of State and National Activities reminded us of upcoming FFA Week. Things we'll be planned to do are to sell bumper sticks and our chaplain, Tina Grove is going to write an essay to be read over the school intercom by our president, Rick Pack.

EIGHT ADULTS IN APPOMATTOX COUNTY recently completed the State Examination for the General Education Development Certificate. This certificate is given to adults in lieu of a diploma and is recognized by many businesses and institutions as equivalent to a high school diploma. All of the successful candidates except one also participated in the GED Review Class, which was eight weeks of intensified study, taught at Appomattox County High School as part of the adult education program. Pictured from left to right are (front row) Margaret Moore, Boiling Carter (teacher), Laura Coffin, Bonnie Burton; second row - Betty Mason, Leota Wright, Judy Johnson, and Marilyn Hartman. Not pictured is Carolyn Page.

The Raider Review

By CECIL JACOBS

Quite recently, Appomattox County High School has seen a drastic increase in vandalism and theft. Until now, there has never been a serious problem of this nature at the new school. What makes a student or adult want to destroy property?

Last Monday, Dec. 5, several athletic students discovered a fire that had obviously been set in an equipment storage room. Although no damage was done to the school building, the four archery targets set ablaze were destroyed.

Those targets will cost the school $65 a piece to replace. With shipping costs, the figure rises to $300 for the replacement of all four targets.

There is little information for officials to work with. The crime could have been committed by almost anybody since the blaze was set after school was dismissed. So, to that end, there has been a $200 reward offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the act.

The athletic department of the school was not the only section vandalized. Such activity has long been taking place in connection with drama club activities in and around the auditorium. During preparation for the recent production of You Can't Take It With You, a large amount of personal property of the actors was destroyed or stolen.

The vandal or vandals were a bit selective in the destruction and theft of property. Only items of small worth that were being used in the production were destroyed or taken. The drama club's sound system (which is highly portable) was overlooked time and again in the rash of crimes. Vandalism even took place during a practice once.

As one student said, "The person who is doing this is obviously very immature." Vandalism may get the vandal personal satisfaction, but what would happen if the tables were turned?

Band, chorus to perform

The Appomattox County High School Raider marching band won third place in the Farmville Christmas Parade competition recently.

The band and the chorus will present a joint Christmas concert Tuesday, Dec. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Admission is free, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Good News for Homemakers

By SHIRLEY W. WALTON
Extension Agent

During the holiday season, add a festive flair to menus, including those foods that are typically associated with Christmas. Yet at the same time, be conscious of the continuing need for well-balanced meals. Why not try some new and nutritous dishes such as those containing leafy green vegetables and other foods that are rich in fiber and vitamins.

In this article I will be sharing holiday hints that I learned about from my Home Economist friends, Dr. Jean Robbins and Charlotte Kidd in Roanoke City. They share an excellent booklet with me that contains recipes and these hints. With their permission, I am using these to help you run your holidays smoother and with some good ideas.

To roast or toast shelled nuts, mix one teaspoon cooking oil or melted shortening with each cup of nut meats for a richer flavor and even browning. To roast or toast, spread nuts in a shallow pan or baking sheet. Bake at 350° for 5 to 12 minutes, or until lightly brown, stirring occasionally.

Make your favorite punch and freeze it. When you remove a beverage to serve, remove it from the freezer and add ginger ale. If you like your punch at slushy type consistency, you may wish to remove it from the freezer several hours ahead.

Freeze ahead individual servings of your favorite frozen fruit salad to make a quick addition to the menu at serving time. These, also, can be frozen in the Christmas paper muffin cup liners. This makes an attractive addition to any meal.

When buying raisins, check the label. Seedless raisins come in white or golden and brown. The flavor of each is similar. The difference comes in that the white or golden raisins have been bleached. These bleached raisins are five to ten cents higher than the dark ones. Look carefully, shop wisely and you can save money.

Dried peaches, pears, apricots and apples are scrumptous is baked goodies but they also make great snacks. Why not keep some on hand in a canister jar so your family can enjoy then as snacks.

Dice cooked chicken and freeze ahead for making a quick chicken salad.

If you are planning to bake a fresh coconut cake, try this easy way to open a coconut. Pierce the eyes with a large nail or ice pick. Drain the liquid from the coconut. To remove the shell, bake the drained coconut at 350° for 20 to 30 minutes or put the coconut in the freezer for an hour. Then place the coconut on a firm surface and tap the shell in several places lightly with a hammer until the shell cracks. Then separate the meat from the shell.

Cakes freeze best if baked before freezing. Add frostings before freezing if they are the uncooked confectioner sugar type. Boiled icings are the most satisfactory if they are applied to the cake after it has thawed.

If you plan to do much holiday baking, it may pay you to shop around for your dried fruits. The prices can vary from store to store. Be sure to check the package sizes, too. The 10-oz., 12-oz. and 16-oz. sizes are the most common.

Mince meat and fruit pies freeze best unbaked. Cut holes in the upper crust just before baking. Bake from the frozen state. Bake at 425° for 15 minutes and then at 325° until the juice boils up through the cut in the center of the crust.

Cookies freeze well baked or unbaked. Cookie dough is easier to package and takes less freezer space than baked cookies. If your freezer is full with other things, you may wish to consider this point.

When storing cookies, separate crisp and soft varieties. Otherwise both will become limp. Store most cookies in containers with tight-fitting lids. Store soft cookies and those with moist fillings in loosely covered containers. For longer storage, package baked cookies in freezer containers or foil and freeze up to eight or nine months.

Take a little extra care and time by following some cookie packing pointers for packing and mailing edible gifts:

1. Select cookies that will travel well.
2. Pack edible gifts in a double box. A decorative inner box for displaying and a corrugated outer box for shipping.
3. Decorative box should be lined with aluminum foil to preserve freshness.
4. To pack cookies follow these suggestions: Bar Cookies - Bake bar cookies in a disposable aluminum foilware and wrap in aluminum foil. They are ready to mail. Drop Cookies and Shake Cookies - Stack six cookies and bundle wrap in heavy wrap aluminum foil. Roll, Cut and Delicate Cookies - Place individual cookies between layers of aluminum foil and/or waxed paper.

If you have a homemaking question or problem, you may call 352-8244 or write P.O. Box 488, Appomattox, VA 24522. It is always a pleasure to hear from you and to help you.

Have a good week!
